3 FAH-1 H-3232.3 Guideline on Opting for SMA

(TL:POH-6; 3-11-96)

(Uniform State/USAID/USIA/Commerce/Foreign Service Corp-USDA)

(Applies to Foreign Service Employees Only)

The member should consider the following guidelines:

- The decision to take dependents to post or to opt for SMA constitutes the initial election.
- A decision to change this status during the tour constitutes the one change of status.
- If the member has elected to take dependents to post, the decision to put dependents on SMA during the tour, traveling at Government expense, would be the one change of status and no further changes could be made during that tour.
- SMA is automatically suspended when the dependents visit the post for more than 30 days (see section STR 266 of the Standardized Regulations). Should the dependents remain at post until the employee departs on reassignment, they may not travel to the U.S. on the employee's travel orders, having already returned to the U.S. under SMA orders. However, dependents may travel on employee's orders to the next post of assignment on a cost constructive basis using the SMA point as the basis for such travel.
- If the original decision was to opt for SMA, the member could decide during the tour to terminate the SMA and bring the dependents to post at Government expense. This decision would constitute the one change of status and additional changes would not be allowed during the tour. Under these circumstances, the dependents would be authorized travel from post on the employee's travel orders at the end of the tour.
